

Daniela Nava

About me...

Daniela Maricela Nava Núñez holds a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration with a focus on International Business from the Universidad Tecnológica de México. Since 2022, she has brought her strategic talent and professional enthusiasm to PARAGON Trading Corporation, where she serves as a Research Analyst.

A dedicated professional with a global perspective, Daniela is recognized for her ability to navigate complex trade environments. She is particularly distinguished for her meticulous approach to international commerce, ensuring that every project she undertakes meets the highest standards of excellence.

Professional Biography

Daniela possesses solid experience in the management and execution of international logistics operations. Her expertise lies in the precise preparation and handling of export documentation, where her impeccable attention to detail ensures compliance and efficiency in every transaction.

Her multidisciplinary approach allows her to optimize supply chain workflows while maintaining a focus on client-centric solutions. Her professional work is characterized by:

- Strategic Research: Delivering data-driven insights as a Research Analyst to support informed decision-making within the trading sector.
- Logistics Coordination: Managing the intricate flow of international goods, ensuring accuracy and timing are never compromised.
- Operational Excellence: Providing unsurpassed service that consistently contributes to high levels of client satisfaction and long-term loyalty.

With a commitment to continuous improvement and accuracy, Daniela provides her team and clients with comprehensive operational security, making her an invaluable asset in the field of international trade.